

Dear future fifth grader and family,

I am already looking forward to having you in my class. We have so much to learn together. You will be amazed at how much you grow as a student in fifth grade! The year will be packed full of new learning experiences. For a successful year, I expect each one of you to work hard, try your best, be kind, and – most importantly – have a positive attitude. I promise to do the same in return!

We will be reading about new adventures through class novel studies, letting our creativity shine through writing, thinking critically to investigate science, discovering interesting things about ancient times in history, and using different strategies to master new math skills. We will also be working cooperatively, using technology in new ways, and reading more than you ever thought possible!

I am excited about seeing each one of you in August!

Sincerely,

Mrs. Dana McDade
